CRASHED INTO STOCK TRAIN

St. Paul Convention Special
Came Head On Into a Freight and 3 Train-men Are Now Dead

.....
The best information points
so strongly to the belief that no passengers were injured in the wreck of the Elks' train, among whose passengers were five La Crosse people and a Winona man, that it may be taken as practically positive.
Relatives of the excursionists
therefore have no occasion to worry.
.....

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., July
10.—A special train filled with Elks enroute to the Elks' convention at Los Angeles, collided with a stock train near Cisco, Utah, 200 miles west of here.

All wires are down, and details are hard to get. Early reports had been to the effect that fifteen people were killed, but this is denied by the officials of the Denver and Rio Grande, who say no passengers were injured.

A statement credited here is to the effect that the casualties are limited
to three trainmen, who are missing,
and whose bodies are said to be under the wreck.

Passengers All Safe.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 10.
—Advices this afternoon show that no passengers were killed in the head on collision between a special Elks' train and a Denver and Rio Grande freight train near Cisco, Utah. Three trainmen are missing and are doubtless dead. The two engines were demolished and one car of the special train was badly smashed.

Dr. E. A. Gatterdam, exalted ruler of the local Elks' lodge, Mrs. Gatter-dam, Mr. Gatterdam's sister, Mrs.
Fior of Madison, Wis., and Walter
S. Meiklejohn, manager of the Fay
Lewis & Bros. cigar store, and ex-Sergeant Chris J. Burns were on the wrecked train.

The party left La Crosse Monday night for St. Paul, where they were joined by Past Exalted Ruler Fred Schaefer of Winona. They left St.
Paul Tuesday evening for the coast,
connecting with the wrecked train at Omaha.

According to a souvenir postal dated Omaha received this morning by Mr. J. D. Becker of this city from C. J. Burns the party was enjoying the trip immensely and were having the time of their lives. Mr. Burns said he was "bunking" with Mr.
Schaefer of Winona and that he made a capital bunk mate.

John C. Burns also received a similar card from his brother from the same point, which was mailed
just as the party boarded the ill fated train.

Burns Gets Message.

The Tribune informed Mr. John C. Burns of the accident and he immediately telegraphed the office
at the Denver and Rio Grande at Chicago. Just before going to press
he received a response stating that the accident was caused by a switch engine crashing into the train. The baggage car was smashed to splinters and three trainmen were killed.
No passengers were killed, but there was a general shake up.

OMAHA, Neb., July 10.—A party of twenty Omaha Elks and their wives and daughters left Omaha Thursday for Los Angeles and are due to arrive there at 8 o'clock this evening. District Deputy Wm. Canada and prominent members of the Omaha lodge were in this party.

INSURGENTS LOSE FIGHT

Forces Demoralized; Only

sent to Vote Against Previous Question

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The house agreed to a conference with the senate on the tariff bill yesterday by a vote of 178 to 151, after a spirited fight had been put up by the insurgents against the formal rule, during which Chairman Payne urged his colleagues to send the conference to conference without instructions.

Speaker Cannon appointed the following members of the conference committee:
Payne, New York; Dalzell, Pennsylvania; McCall, Massachusetts; Boutell, Illinois; Calderhead, Kansas; Fordney, Michigan; Clark, Missouri; Underwood, Alabama, and Griggs, Georgia.

The bill as it came from the senate was condemned by Mr. Townsend (Mich.).
The bill, in the opinion of Mr.
Fitzgerald, who opposed the rule,
was about as bad a piece of legislation as it would be possible to make in any legislative body.

Davidson Makes Protest.

The ice having been thus broken,
Messrs. Davidson of Wisconsin and Douglass of Ohio, two other republicans, were outspoken.

HILL AND NEEDHAM CUT OFF

Ranking Members of Ways and Means Committee
Favoring Free Lumber
Not Appointed

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 10.—
There is much talk at the capitol
today of difficulties between Speaker Cannon and Chairman Payne of the ways and means committee over the appointment of the house conference. Payne preferred the selections of the republicans in the order of their rank on the ways and means committee. That would have given Hill, of Connecticut, a place on the conference committee. Hill is for free lumber and free hides. He was passed over, however, as was Needham, of California, and the places
were given to Fordney of Michigan and Calderhead of Kansas. Fordney is probably the highest standpat in congress and is especially strong for a generous tariff on lumber. Calderhead comes from a cattle growing district and is for a tariff on hides. So both these appointments provide high tariff advocates on two important schedules.

Will Work Hard

Both Payne and Aldrich demonstrated in the preparation of their bills that they were not averse to working 12 or 15 hours a day and

Taft Demands Lower Tariff

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 10.—President Taft has at last interfered in the tariff controversy, and has taken a stand for a material reduction of the schedules. It is reported that he wants reductions in general in the line of free raw materials, including free iron ore, free lumber, free coal and free hides. It is also said he is dissatisfied with the cotton schedules, but that their intricacy is such that he has not attempted to specify what he considers a fair proposition. Experts have completed tabulations of the tariff for the president, and he is using these tables as a basis for the position which he assumes.

The president told Senator Aldrich at a conference last night

that there must be substantial revision downward shown in the tariff bill. He has not confined himself to interviewing members of the Aldrich organization, but has conferred also with the insurgent leaders.

It is said that the argument which the president hopes may influence the standpaters is the fact that the next election may be lost if something is not done in the way of downward revision. He points out that, with the exception of Minnesota and Wisconsin the seven states whose senators are among the insurgents were all close in the last election, the republican plurality in Iowa being only 8,852, Indiana 10,641, South Dakota 27,129 and Kansas 36,007.

NEW YORK'S NEW POLICE COMMISSIONER WHO SUCCEEDS GENERAL BINGHAM

missioner of New York city.

VERDICT IS LOST APPEAL IS TAKEN

Judge Higbee Sets Aside Marvin Verdict and His-cox Appeals to Supreme Court

Upon the ground that the jury had ignored his instructions as to the measure of damage in bringing in a verdict of $16.00 for Alderman
George Marvin, Jr., in the assault case of the latter against Ray His-cox, Judge Higbee this morning set aside the verdict and ordered a new trial.

"To let it stand would be a travesty to justice," said the court. He indicated that it would not be necessary for the plaintiff's attorneys to argue their motion, but he listened to a vigorous argument against it by A. C. Wolfe of counsel for the defendant.

The defendant's attorneys, F. H.
Hartwell and A. C. Wolfe, immediately following the decision announced their intention of taking the matter to the supreme court on appeal.

ARBITERS EXPECT TO SETTLE TROUBLES

Messrs. Fred H. Hartwell and J.
W. Ferris, arbitrators in the differences existing between the La Crosse
City Railway company and its employes held a meeting yesterday afternoon at the office of Mr. Ferris in the Batavian bank building. The result of the conference was that the two arbitrators think that they will be able to effect a compromise between the two factions without the necessity of appointing a third arbitrator or taking any testimony.

Another meeting of the arbitrators is to be held Monday morning when Mr. Ferris returns from Chicago where he is today on business.

MILLION DOLLAR LOSS FROM FLOOD

SIoux CITY, Iowa, July 10.—A cloudburst which occurred a few mil-above Sioux City today has caused the most disastrous flood in the history of the city. At noon one life was known to have been lost and property loss estimated at $1,000-000 had been caused.

CHILD LOSES BOTH FEET IN MOWER

DULUTH, Minn., July 10.—The 9
year old daughter of John Gunders-
on, a farmer living near Gary, Minn., had both feet cut off by a mowing machine today. She was playing in a field where her brother was running a mower when the machine struck her and knocked her down.

EVERY UNION MAN ANGRY.

CHICAGO, July 10.—Labor in Chicago is indignant today over the attempt of the police to implicate
Vincent Altman, assistant business agent of the carpenters' union in the recent bomb explosions.

POLICE DISCREDIT ACCOMPLICE STORY

Disbelieve Hajdukovich's Tale of Being Pupil of a Notorious Coun-terfeiter

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 10.—In spite of remarks dropped by John Hajdukovich, whose arrest early Friday morning by Patrolman Michael Regan followed the raid of Detectives Rooney and Kruse upon his home, when a counterfeiters' outfit and a number of bogus coins
were discovered the police and secret service agent McManus do not think they can implicate any more men.

Hajdukovich intimated that he
was a pupil of a well known coun-terfeiter and that he, his chief and
another member of a gang had recently come to Milwaukee from Minnesota but that he and the chief had
quarreled, the chief returning north.

At first the police were inclined to believe his story, but now, while they have not entirely acknowledged its possibility they are giving it little credence.

"I think we have the case pretty well cleaned up," said Inspector Otto Reimer Friday afternoon.

At daylight Friday morning the
police made a further investigation
of the house that revealed another
counterfeiting plant even more complete than the one first discovered.
It was hidden underneath the floor
of the second story.

STREET CAR STRIKE COST COUNTY $200

Two hundred dollars or more is the sum La Crosse county will be compelled to pay for the little tilt
the local union of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Employees had with the La Crosse City Railway company during the strike just settled.

Thirty-five men were deputized by Sheriff William Duncan and all of them set out from three to nine dollars worth of time and their millages. The deputies were all county supervisors from the surrounding towns and villages.

The claims committee of the La Crosse county board is in session today. There is no way in which the county can cut the bill down. Sheriff Duncan in calling in the supervisors
instead of the militia as he was requested to do, saved the county almost a similar amount.

FOREST FIRES ALARM.

DULUTH, Minn., July 10.—Small fires in the timber are reported today from many sections of the Mesaba iron range, the town of Gilbert being especially menaced. Constantly sprinkling of the streets and buildings by firemen probably saved
Gilbert yesterday.

ELECTION POSTPONED.

On account of the storm no quorum could be secured and the annual meeting and election of officers of the Young People's society of the West Avenue Norwegian Lutheran church was postponed last night for two weeks.

MAY CHANGE ENTIRE PLAN OF PROPOSED NEW WATER PLANT INCLUDING SOURCE OF SUPPLY

REVISION OF WATER SYSTEM PLANNED

Council Committee Recommends New Public Station in River Side Park
With New Pump

CALLS SYSTEM INADEQUATE

Committee Reports in Favor of New Arrangement and Figures Will Be Submitted

Before the monthly council meeting last night Alderman Kohn of the committee on water made an extensive report regarding the investigation that they had conducted of the present water system and the pumping station and recommended that a special committee consisting of the present water committee, three additional members and the city engineer be appointed to make a thorough investigation and report as soon as possible the advisability of moving the pumping station and the best methods of procuring for the city a good and sufficient supply of water. The city engineer will furnish plans and estimates for the improvements outlined by the committee. The resolution was adopted.
The committee recommended the building of a new pumping station
at the head of the Riverside Park,
with intake pipes extending beyond
the mouth of the La Crosse and Black rivers, and the erection of a settling basin or a water cleaning apparatus.

The Report.

The committee's resolutions and
report in full follows:

"The committee on water, to whom was referred the communication of the city engineer regarding the condition of our present water system and pumping station, have looked into and carefully considered
the conditions as they were found.

"The water supply at the station as originally put in consists of two intake pipes leading into two wells or large cisterns from the river. The smaller, or first well, is supplied by a pipe laid deep enough to cause the water to run direct from the river to well at any stage of water. The larger, or second well, is supplied by a siphon intake, which in order to keep it working has an air pump constantly running in connection with it. Both of these intakes originally crossed over to the west shore of the river to avoid muddy or clay water from the La Crosse river. It seems that they worked fairly well up to a few years ago when there were four wing dams built out
from what is now Pettibone park, north of the wagon bridge. These dams caused the sand in the channel
to swirl or gather all along the west shore to nearly half a mile below the island, and in doing so, buried the intakes with sand, so that from time to time they have had to be broken nearer to the city shore to allow the water to flow in, so that now the main intake is right in the channel
where all the La Crosse river mud,
North Side sewerage, overflow wash

ENDEAVORERS TALK OF LABOR PROBLEM

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 10.—The La Crosse problem was the subject of discussion at the principal session of the Christian Endeavor convention today, the leading address
being by Rev. Chas. Stelzle, New York, on the relations of the church to labor and capital. Other speakers were Geo. W. Coleman, Boston;
E. W. Van Aken, Winnebago, Minn.,
and Rev. A. A. Shaw, Winnipeg, Man.

This afternoon there are no sessions. Tonight there is a camp fire for missions and at the Auditorium Elijah.

EXILES FIGHT COSSACKS.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 10.—Seven Cossacks and a number of political exiles were killed in a fight between Russian soldiers and thirty exiles in Siberia recently, according to advices brought here from Alaska today by John W. Kelly. The survivors of the band of exiles are now nearing Alaska.

THE COMMISSION URGES ONE CHANGE

Wants Idea of Locating
Plant in La Crosse River Park Altered; This May Be Done

THE COPELAND IDEA AGAIN

Plan for Wells and a Reservoir Brought to Attention of Mayor and Will Be Considered

The administration plan of establishing the proposed new waterworks
in park grounds near La Crosse river will without doubt be abandoned.

It is also possible that the plan for the new system of settling tanks
may be given up, and wells located near the foot of Granddad bluff, with a reservoir on the heights, may be adopted instead.

Mayor Sorensen had a busy day
today following the announcement
last night of the waterworks plan,
through a report of a council committee having the matter in charge.
Callers at the executive office are reported to have been uniformly in favor of a new adequate water plant,
but they differed as to the kind and location.

Park Commissioners Object.

The change in plans as to the location, which undoubtedly will be made, is due to a strong opposition
on the part of the park commission,
the members of which objected with as much strength as diplomacy would permit to the building of such a plant on park lands so admirably
adapted to the latter purpose. Mr.
Joseph M. Hixon, president of the park commission, said today:

"The choice of a location was a surprise to us, and we immediately
made known our feeling that the water program should not be permitted to interfere with a previously arranged park system plan. Of course the mayor and his advisors had not thought of that phase of the matter,
and were actuated purely by a desire to secure a convenient location for the waterworks. We believe the officials have taken our point seriously, and that a revision of their plans will follow."

Mayor Wants Harmony.

Mayor Sorensen said to The Tribune that the effect of the selection of a site upon the park system had not occurred to him, and that the matter would be taken up with the committee at once.

"I know that at least part of the

Games Today
La Crosse at Duluth.
Eau Claire at Superior.
Wausau at Winona.

SUPERIOR, Wis., July 10.—The last game of the series was forfeited to the Drillers here yesterday by a score of 9 to 0 in the last half of the seventh inning when the Outcasts refused to continue the game after a decision made by Osborne who handed the game to Superior.

The dispute arose when Holstrom went from second station to the home plate on a passed ball and was tagged out as he slid into the home sack. Umpire Osborne ordered Holstrom back to third base after he had been called out at home, and the La Crosse team objected. Following the action of the umpire a rag-fest on the bench ensued, the principal actors in it being Pitcher Watson and Outfielder Geyer. It is alleged that Watson handed Geyer a punch and that both of the men were ordered from the field. La Crosse again objected saying that the banishing of Watson would cripple the team. Umpire Osborne refused to reverse either of the decisions and Geyer held his men to the bench, allowing the umpire to forfeit the game to Superior.

For the entire seven innings the game had been a pretty pitching duel between Stremmel and Watson. Watson had been touched for four hits and his team mates had contributed four errors, leaving the score 1 to 0 in favor of the Drillers. Stremmel had been found but for one single.

Superior ..... 0 0 0 0 0 0—1 4 1

Duluth, 2; Eau Claire, 1.
DULUTH, Minn., July 10.—The home team made it four straight from the league leaders by taking the fourth game yesterday afternoon after 14 innings of hard fighting on the part of both teams. Both Schroeder and Cummings were in good form and it was clearly a hurling duel until a couple of hits drove the winning run over for Duluth in the final round. Cummings was hit harder but kept the bingles scattered. Score of the game:
R. H. E.
Duluth ..... 2 6 2
Eau Claire ..... 1 11 4
Batteries—Cummings and Mueller; Schroeder and Nieman.

Wausau, 11; Winona, 3.
WAUSAU, Wis., July 10.—The Lumberjacks and Scrappers broke even on the series by the home team taking the final game yesterday afternoon by an uneven score. Corbett was batted hard but went the full distance, while Dunbar kept the hits of the visitors scattered. Score of the game:
R. H. E.
Wausau ..... 11 15 6
Winona ..... 3 9 4
Batteries—Dunbar and Johnson; Corbett and Killian.

FOOTBALL DENOUNCED

DENVER, Colo., July 10.—Football as it is played in American colleges was scathingly denounced as on a plane with pugilism in an address by W. F. Slocum, president of Colorado college, before the National Educational Association. The game, he declared, is dangerous because it is not "dominated by a love of sport."

"It tends to produce an abnormal type of physical development," he added, "simply for the purpose of intense competition. It does not produce either mental or physical normal conditions and mentally it shows the same results as war and pugilistic contests."

"The spirit growing out of the game is similar to that of which one hears after two contending armies have met on the battlefield. The time has come when the glory of an athletic battlefield is much more in evidence than intellectual and moral achievement in the class room."

Many people with chronic throat and lung trouble have found comfort and relief in Foley's Honey and Tar as it cures stubborn coughs after other treatment has failed. L. M. Ruggles, Reesor, Iowa, writes: "The doctors said I had consumption, and I got no better until I took Foley's Honey and Tar. It stopped the hemorrhages and pain in my lungs and they are now as sound as a bullet. O. T. Erhart."

LA CROSSE STILL IS GROWING IN NUMBERS

That the city of La Crosse is ever growing in population is proved by the monthly report of Health Commissioner Murphy. The births during the month of June exceeded the deaths by 11 in number. The month of June with its June brides, is reported as having a total of 44 marriages. Following is the report:

Deaths	Male	Female	Total
Deaths	26	9	35
Births	25	21	46
Marriages	44		44
Accidents reported	6		6

For the entire seven innings the game had been a pretty pitching duel between Stremmel and Watson. Watson had been touched for four hits and his team mates had contributed four errors, leaving the score 1 to 0 in favor of the Drillers. Stremmel had been found but for one single.

Duluth, 2; Eau Claire, 1.
DULUTH, Minn., July 10.—The home team made it four straight from the league leaders by taking the fourth game yesterday afternoon after 14 innings of hard fighting on the part of both teams. Both Schroeder and Cummings were in good form and it was clearly a hurling duel until a couple of hits drove the winning run over for Duluth in the final round. Cummings was hit harder but kept the bingles scattered. Score of the game:
R. H. E.
Duluth ..... 2 6 2
Eau Claire ..... 1 11 4

It had been a most disastrous day. Pittsburgh won both games and by scores of 9 to 5 and 4 to 2. Maddox and Camnitz pitched the first of the victories and Phillippi the second; Ames, Marquard and Crandall were put into the box for New York in the first game, but the trio proved ineffective. In the second Raymond filled the box for seven innings, when Ames was brought out again but only to allow Pittsburgh another run. In neither game was the result ever in doubt, the Giants being completely outplayed.

Boston won 4 to 3 from St. Louis yesterday, the deciding run being scored in the ninth inning with none out, when Mattern singled and was scored in by successive passes to Becker, Starr and Thomas. Konetchy added another home run to his long list.

Smarting under the howls of fretful bugs the Phillies flew off the handle yesterday and stung the Cubs 5 to 1. A batted ball in the third busted Pfeister's pitching hand. Then Evers was bumped on the chin sliding to second base in the first stanza and the Trojan was drydoctored to collect his scattered ideas. The valuable athlete is not seriously damaged, but Pfeister may be laid up for some time.

The Reds took another game from the Dodgers, but it took ten innings to do it. A batting rally and two costly errors by McMillan in the tenth gave the Reds three runs and the game.

ROOSEVELT ENTERS DANGEROUS COUNTRY
(By Warrington Dawson, Staff Correspondent of the United Press.)
NAIVASHA, B. E. A., July 10.—Latest reports from the Fort Hall district, into which the Roosevelt party will plunge in August after leaving Nairobi, indicate that the presidential party will encounter some of the gravest dangers it has yet met in the African hunt.

An immense pack of man-eating lions, one of the largest reported by hunters in many years, has taken literal possession of the district, so terrorized the natives and foreigners as practically to paralyze travel and industry. Up-country runners and travelers on the Uganda railroad report that the lions are more savage and aggressive than they have been in many years. Scores of natives have been killed by the pack during the past week, the lions which are of the heavy-maned variety, making raids on the native villages at night and after slaying such natives as are unprotected retreat to the brush. A hunting party of two hundred natives has made ineffectual attempts to stalk the beasts during the day, but they dare not attempt to attack the animals at night nor beat them from the brush owing to their fierceness.

NOTORIOUS BIGAMIST NABBED BY POLICE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—According to the police Johnson, arrested here yesterday, is John Madison, said to be wanted on charge of bigamy in most of the large cities of the country. The police allege that during the course of a few months Madison married and deserted 24 women after he robbed them of sums of money.

ALLEGED MAKER OF BAD MONEY NABBED
MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 10.—J. Hajdukovich was arrested yesterday when he returned to his home on the south side which was raided last night after secret service men had determined that there was counterfeiting being carried on there. The man's wife and niece are said to have confessed. Dies for making half and quarter dollar pieces were seized.

A RECKLESS STEP
It is rumored that John D. Rockefeller is about to retire from active business.
No objection can be raised to this;
it is John D.'s own business. Who has authority to say that this man shall retire, or that man shall continue to work. The right of any man to retire from business is one of the few things which the supreme court has not declared to be unconstitutional.
But, in a friendly spirit—for old
John Rockefeller is a good old soul
—it may be suggested that perhaps
Mr. Rockefeller is making a mistake.
He has laid away what, under ordinary conditions, would be a safe competence for his old age; he has looked with some foresight and sagacity
to the possibility of the rainy day.
But in these troublous times what man can feel absolutely safe from the rampages and ravages of want. A little "wad" like that which Mr.
Rockefeller's frugality has accumulated might be swept away by a flood of populist legislation at any moment. An erring government might confiscate that which he has acquired by means which, in the impolite language of the police court, is termed
"graft." An excited public sentiment might become impelled by overly nice discrimination against business rascality to demand restitution
of that from which he has acquired
the public by methods more effective than decent.
And so, on the off chance that some untoward affair may one day deprive him of the simple comforts of life, a friendly interest suggests the advisability of Mr. Rockefeller keeping his hand to the plough yet a few years more.

THE PRIMARY MIRAGE.
The Legislative Voters' League of Illinois has submitted to a committee the problem of framing a primary law that will stand the test of the proliferation-declarations-of - unconstitutionality supreme court of that state, and despite the three defeats
the public there has sustained at the hands of its chief tribunal, the Record-Herald believes such a law is possible. That the law, as drawn, must avoid many obstacles not raised in other states, may be judged

from the following comment by that newspaper:

The open and secret enemies of honest and popular primaries affect to believe that under our constitution and supreme court interpreta-tions a direct primary statute is "an impossibility." But as they have never taken the trouble to profit by the judicial criticisms or suggestions their wish is manifestly father to the thought. The honest friends of primary legislation will welcome the aid of the league and rejoice that expert legal study and investigation will precede the attempt to frame a fourth primary act.

The task will not be an easy one, for, with all its desire to render its position absolutely clear to the legisla-ture and public, some of the reason-ing of the opinion in the last case was distinctly obscure, as Justice Carter frankly stated in a concurring opinion. The part that dealt with the registration provisions was in-telligible enough, but the references to cumulative voting and minority representation in the general assem-bly left certain misgivings in one's mind. The opinion said: "If each party were required to nominate three candidates (for representative, in each district) it would render nugatory the constitutional provision for minority representation;" and yet in the same breath almost the court insisted that the voter could not lawfully be deprived of his right to vote for three candidates. In a previous opinion the court intimated that senatorial committees might suggest by resolution the number of candi-dates for representative that ought to be selected and might even print the suggestion on the ballot in some form or another, but it insisted that the voter's choice could not be ar-bitrarily restricted by any committee or organization.

Thus the matter is misty and dif-ficult, and the league will perceive the necessity of meeting at the same time the court's demand for the fullest freedom for the voter and the constitutional provision for mi-nority representation and an oppor-tunity for cumulative voting.

Perhaps Illinois may eventually secure a direct primary law, not-withstanding the hostility of its su-preme court, and perhaps the reason for expecting success has been ad-vanced by the Chicago Tribune, which narrows the question down to the people finally getting what they want. In discussing an attack on the primary principle as untenable, made by a college professor, the Tribune says:

It would be difficult to frame a stronger indictment of the direct pri-mary than the one in the article by Professor Ford of Princeton in the North American Review for July. He will not allow it one small virtue. It seems to him all bad—"from scalp to sole one slough and crust of sin." It betters nothing, but worsens ev-erything within its field of action.

The friends of the direct primary say it will take power from the poli-ticians and give it to the people. "This is pure nonsense," says the professor. "It may take advantage and opportunity from one set of poli-ticians and confer them upon another set, but politicians there will al-ways be so long as there is politics."

"The direct primary's pretense of giving power to the people is a mockery. The reality is that it scrambles power among faction chiefs and their bands, while the peo-ple are despoiled and oppressed."

The direct primary makes politics "still more irresponsible, confused, and costly. It parallels the long se-ries of regular elections with a cor-responding series of elections in ev-ery political organization." "The more elections there are the larger becomes the class of profes-sional politicians to be supported by the community." The direct pri-mary, by multiplying elections, "necessarily intensifies graft pres-sure."

And yet such is the stupidity or unreasonableness of the people that those who have the direct primary will not give it up in spite of the evils it is alleged to have engen-dered, and those who do not have it are clamoring for it. If the Illinois voters were to read Professor Ford's indictment it would not alter their determination to have a direct pri-mary law in the place of the one they have lost. They think the di-rect primary gives them power, whatever a university professor of politics may say to the contrary. As long as voters generally believe that, magazine articles will not stay the progress of direct primary legisla-tion.

Knew His Man.
Speaker Cannon is not averse to telling a story once in a while that turns the point of the joke on him-self. Uncle Joe is a pastmaster of the art of preventing a member of the house from speaking when it is known that he has something to say that is in opposition to the speaker's policies, and he has put the soft pedal and the silent not on many an insurgent speech, and done it, too, with an iron-shod heel.

But Uncle Joe was silenced one day while on the floor of the house by a method that established a prece-dent and turned the laugh on Can-non. "Sunset Cox" had the floor, and he was saying some pretty hard things about a certain citizen of Mr. Cannon's own home bailiwick. The gaunt Illinoisan was on his feet at last, after listening to the arraign-ment as long as he could stand it. "Will the gentleman from New York yield to me?" Cannon wanted to know.

"Certainly, with pleasure," replied Mr. Cox.

"For how long?" the speaker asked.

"As long as the gentleman from Illinois will keep his hands in his pockets," laughingly replied Mr. Cox.

Mr. Cannon immediately accepted the terms of the concession and be-gan with his remarks. He ripped out one long, expressive sentence with his hands firmly stowed in his trouser's pockets, and had waded half way into the next when his hands came out of storage and went grating through the air like a pair of Dutch windmills.

"Time's up," called Mr. Cox, smil-ing at his opponent. He well knew his man when he granted him the privilege.—New York Times.

SPOTLIGHTS

NO MOTHER TO GUIDE HER
A great deal of interest is at-tached to the engagement of the Wil-liam's Stock company which opens an eight day series with a matinee performance tomorrow afternoon, at the La Crosse theater. The manage-ment has gathered not only people who are strong repertoire actors, but those who are well known along other lines of theatrical work.

Thus combining the two forces they have produced a company of ex-celence and one may rest assured, that every play produced will be given complete and careful attention to every detail.

"No Mother to Guide Her" is es-pecially strong. The climax in the second act requires forceful acting and careful handling. So well is this carried out and so gripping is the scene, that night after night, the other members of the company who are not required in the scene, group themselves in the wings to watch, and as well as they know the scene, tears come to their eyes and they in-variably burst in to applause as the curtain descends. This is seldom done by an actor, as he is a jealous mortal, but so powerful and clever, is this great scene handled by Mr. Meharry, Mr. Walck and Mr. Speers, that for the time being they lay aside all petty jealousy and give credit where credit is due. Then too in the first act is Mr. Meharry's great song, with its haunting melody. There is something in each act, that makes it well worth while to attend.

Thou hast gone before me
To thy last, long sleep;
Tears cannot restore thee—
Therefore I weep.

The Judge's Explanation
There's a prominent judge living in the rural districts of Virginia, where bathtubs are not to be found in every home, who was the proud possessor of such a luxury, which he permitted no one else to use. One day he found that some one had been using his tub, and, reaching the con-clusion that it could be none other than Mary, his housemaid, he sum-moned her to appear before him and charged her with having transgressed his unwritten law.

Mary confessed her fault, and the judge, after enjoining her to sin no more in this matter, as freely for-gave her. Observing that the maid seemed somewhat hurt at the "call-ing down" which he had thus given her, the judge, by way of softening his rebuke, said:

"It is not that I object to your us-ing my tub, Mary, but I hate to think that you would do anything behind my back that you wouldn't do be-fore my face."—Richmond Courier.

Hypocrite in the Hereafter
Dr. Madison C. Peters was discus-sing the question, "Will the coming man marry?" He instanced a cer-tain type of bachelor.

"This man," he said, "is a hypo-crite. He uses his religion as a cloak."

"And what will he do in the next world, eh?" said the reporter.

"Oh," said Dr. Peters, "he won't need any cloak there."—New York Tribune.

The sounds died away into silence, and once more she looked into the swirl of the pool. The shivering surface fascinated her, and she won-dered what lay beneath that scintil-lating sheet of steel. Perhaps there was the secret of happiness in its depths. Perhaps the knowledge of things unseen. It looked cold and merciless, yet it could not be colder and more merciless than the world above it.

Leonore had come to that point in her life when she was able to face the prospect of death without regret and without terror. For a time she had existed on the mere excitement of praise and triumph as a man might be kept alive with sti-culants, or drugs. She had ap-peared herself to her Art with that fur-ious energy which is the outcome of high-strung nerves. Nature exacts full payment for every debt, and the hour of reckoning had come.

The collapse had taken place one night on the stage itself, in the midst of a big scene which always tried her physical and mental powers to the utmost. All England knew that Leonore Jackson would be out of the cast at the Royal Theatre for many months to come.

But Leonore herself and the doc-tors, who had given their verdict knew more than this.

"If you act again," said Sir Wil-liam Turl, "I will not be answerable for your life. You require rest, and you must always live a quiet life. A single big scene may kill you."

Rest! There was a world of mockery in that word. She could never rest so long as the man she loved kept her in his side.

After a while when she had been crushed by the pain and weariness of it, she resolved to seek the rest which she could never find on earth.

And so, half crazy with sorrow, and feeble from the effects of her physical distress, Leonore had crawl-ed down to Black Hall to die. She had chosen the place where John Shil had held her in his arms, and kissed her lips.

She looked up at the cold moon and the keen frosty sky, and the clear outline of the trees. And, as she looked, she realized the vileness of the thing she was about to do.

"I am a coward," she said to her-self. "I will go back to London and fight till the end."

But even as the thought came in-to her mind, a cloud of darkness rushed down upon her brain; the moon, the trees, the sky vanished. Something roared in her ears like the fall of many waters. She grasp-ed at the air, swayed, tottered, and lost her footing.

For a moment the surface of the pool rocked in waves and foam. Then it gradually settled down into gias-sy stillness. Nothing rose from the depths.

The collapse had taken place one night on the stage itself, in the midst of a big scene which always tried her physical and mental powers to the utmost. All England knew that Leonore Jackson would be out of the cast at the Royal Theatre for many months to come.

But Leonore herself and the doc-tors, who had given their verdict knew more than this.

"If you act again," said Sir Wil-liam Turl, "I will not be answerable for your life. You require rest, and you must always live a quiet life. A single big scene may kill you."

Rest! There was a world of mockery in that word. She could never rest so long as the man she loved kept her in his side.

After a while when she had been crushed by the pain and weariness of it, she resolved to seek the rest which she could never find on earth.

And so, half crazy with sorrow, and feeble from the effects of her physical distress, Leonore had crawl-ed down to Black Hall to die. She had chosen the place where John Shil had held her in his arms, and kissed her lips.

She looked up at the cold moon and the keen frosty sky, and the clear outline of the trees. And, as she looked, she realized the vileness of the thing she was about to do.

"I am a coward," she said to her-self. "I will go back to London and fight till the end."

But even as the thought came in-to her mind, a cloud of darkness rushed down upon her brain; the moon, the trees, the sky vanished. Something roared in her ears like the fall of many waters. She grasp-ed at the air, swayed, tottered, and lost her footing.

For a moment the surface of the pool rocked in waves and foam. Then it gradually settled down into gias-sy stillness. Nothing rose from the depths.

The sounds died away into silence, and once more she looked into the swirl of the pool. The shivering surface fascinated her, and she won-dered what lay beneath that scintil-lating sheet of steel. Perhaps there was the secret of happiness in its depths. Perhaps the knowledge of things unseen. It looked cold and merciless, yet it could not be colder and more merciless than the world above it.

Leonore had come to that point in her life when she was able to face the prospect of death without regret and without terror. For a time she had existed on the mere excitement of praise and triumph as a man might be kept alive with sti-culants, or drugs. She had ap-peared herself to her Art with that fur-ious energy which is the outcome of high-strung nerves. Nature exacts full payment for every debt, and the hour of reckoning had come.

In the valley the great grey mass of Tankerlane Court showed out against a background of green park-land. Laura looked at it without pride or affection. In a week's time she would be no longer mistress of its splendours. The new heir, Sir Henry Tankerlane, was to take pos-session of the estate. Laura knew that she would give up her position without regret. She intended to live with her father at the farm.

For the truth about the newdon Castle had come up to England at last. The sole survivors, forty-seven in number, had been picked up off a small island in the South Atlantic. John Shil was among them, but Sir William Tankerlane was numbered with the thousand odd who had per-ished.

Laura had received the news with that calm, white face and inward re-signation which had now become the marks of her daily life. But be-fore a few hours had passed, she was weeping bitterly.

"I sent him out to his death," she said, as she fell on her knees and prayed for the souls of those who had gone down into the deep. "Oh Lord, pardon him all his sin, and forgive me all the wrong I did him."

And then she had gone back to her work among the poor and suf-fering, and she had toiled with re-doubled vigour, as though life held nothing else for her.

She was returning on foot from some errand of mercy on the other side of the hills when she paused and watched the sun sink down be-hind the distant mountains.

Then far below her she saw the figures of two men toiling slowly up the road from Laverstone.

As they came closer, she recogniz-ed the great stooping body of one of them. He leant on the arm of his companion, and the ascent seemed to tax all his physical powers.

She moved down the slope to meet them.

"Mr. Shil," she said gently, as she came to his side.

"Yes, it is I, Lady Tankerlane," he replied. "Where is your hand?"

She gave it to him and he held it for a moment. Then he turned to his companion.

"Please return to the village, Mar-tin," he said, "and tell them to get supper ready at the inn."

John Shil and Laura were alone.

"Laura," he said quietly, "do you know how it is that I am here—alive?"

She did not answer him. She did not understand the question, and it did not seem to require an answer.

"I am here," he continued, "be-cause your husband gave his life for mine. In the crash and confusion of the wreck he kept by my side. He gave me his life-belt. He told me there were two of them. I did not learn till afterwards from another of the survivors that William Tanker-lane was without a life-belt when the end came. He gave his life for mine, Laura."

They were both silent for a few moments, and looked out across the valley to the black rampart of the Welsh hills.

"I came here to tell you this," he continued. "I thought you would like to know. I sent you a telegram this morning, but I suppose you didn't get it. They told me where you had gone, and I came to meet you."

"I am glad you have come," she replied. "It is getting dark. Shall we return?"

"Yes," he said slowly, "it is get-ting dark. Laura, do you know, I have dared to think that your hus-band saved my life for your sake—because he knew—because he—"

"Let us go home," said Laura gently.

"I shall return to Black Hall to-morrow," he said. "In a year's time I should like to come back to Laverstone and see you again. May I come back—when a year has passed?"

"Let us go home," she replied, "it is getting dark."

"In a year's time," he persisted, "may I come again to Laverstone?"

"Yes," she replied, in a low voice.

"I think he wished it."

And together they passed from the sunlit hills to the twilight in the valley beneath.

SPECIAL ELECTION MUST NOW BE HELD

Council Rejects Ordinance to Fill Vacancies in Its Membership by Ap- pointment

With a vote of fifteen necessary for passage the ordinance providing for the filling of vacancies in the office of mayor or aldermen by the city council was last evening turned down by a vote of 14 ayes and 5
noes.

The agitation along this line has been very noticeable since the death of the late Alderman Snyder and the removal of Joseph Bartl from his former ward. It was finally decided that the ordinance which can be adopted by a three-fourths vote of the council, should be brought up for adoption at this meeting. It was the cause of much debate.

Alderman Smith spoke, saying that he thought it was a step backwards and that it was taking away
from the people the rights of a voice
in choosing their representative.
Downs stated that the right had been conferred by the legislature at Madison and he could not see why the ordinance should not be adopted.
Several of the aldermen seemed to be of the opinion that the effect of the adoption of this ordinance would be but temporarily to fill the two vacancies in the council, but they were speedily enlightened by the city attorney to the contrary. The report of Alderman Schneberger was accepted and the question was put before the council with the result that the resolution to adopt the ordinance was lost.

City Attorney Doherty stated that the vacancies in these two wards
would now have to be filled by a special election which may be and should be called immediately, as the people in these wards should not be without their representatives in the common council. This will put the city to an expense of about $600, according to a statement made by the city clerk.

Minor Matters.

The report of the city comptroller
was accepted and placed on file.

A resolution to draw on the city for a sum not to exceed $300 for the purpose of repairing the steamer T.
B. Stoddard at fire station No. 1 was adopted.

A request to have a certain undesirable building in the vicinity of Ninth and Ferry streets removed,
was refused.

The resolution to draw upon the city for the sum of $1,500 to be available after January 1, 1910, for the purpose of repairing and remodeling the exposition building at the Interstate fair grounds was adopted.

A resolution to the effect that the mayor and four members of the council or city officials be sent, at the expense of the city, to the meeting of the Wisconsin League of Municipalities at Marinette, was adopted.

The board of public works was authorized to purchase a horse for the use of the police department not to exceed $225 in cost.

The report of Police Justice Ed
Cronon showing that a total of over $800 in fines had been collected,
was accepted and placed on file.

The report of the police department was accepted and placed on file.

A resolution providing for the publishing of the real name of persons apprehended in houses of ill fame and the fining of keepers with fines from $50 to $100 and inmates from $10 to $25 was laid on the table.

A resolution to have the Wisconsin excise laws printed in pamphlet form and distributed among the sal-oonkeepers at the expense of the city was referred to the finance committee.

A letter from Captain Thompson in regard to the condition of the sheer fence was read to the council and the committee reported a resolution that the committee, the board of public works and the city engineer be authorized to secure estimates on the cost of repairing the fence permanently with piling or with stone or concrete. The resolution was adopted. It was the opinion of the committee and several other aldermen that a stone or concrete sheer fence should be built.

A resolution that the request of Gibson brothers to put a pop corn stand on St. Paul street be refused, was adopted.

Several pool licenses to the proprietors of pool and billiard halls
about the city were granted.

The resignation of Joseph Bartl was read by the city clerk and accepted by the council.

It was announced by the mayor
that Mr. Easton had offered the use of his launch for the purpose of conveyance to and from the city for the city officials' picnic, July 15.

The meeting was adjourned until July 22, when it will meet again
for the purpose of considering several licenses.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 9.—Several persons were severely injured,
some of them perhaps fatally, this afternoon near the Sheephead Bay
race track, when a Long Island train crashed into a four car train of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company.

PASTOR ORDERED FROM PARSONAGE

Evangelical Creed Wins Case; Other Teachers in Contempt of Court

MILWAUKEE, July 10.—One of the most novel court orders ever issued by a court is that of Judge E.
B. Belden, Racine, who finds the Rev. Franz Kupfer guilty of contempt of court and orders him to leave the parsonage within one week.

Dr. Julius F. Bruess, 1702 Wright
street, is also found guilty of contempt for reading a service in the church of the Evangelical Creed congregation, when, by his testimony,
he was an Evangelical Lutheran.

The court has ordered the board of trustees to get a temporary pastor within ten days and a permanent one, who is an Evangelical Creed minister, within sixty days.

Can Not Use Church.
The defendant Lutherans in the case of Fred J. Marlen against the pastor and board of trustees of the Evangelical Creed congregation, are restrained from using the church in any manner.

Judge Belden was in Milwaukee
on Friday and made these orders
upon the order to show cause, obtained by Fred J. Marlen, why the pastor, the Rev. Franz Kupfer, and Dr. Julius F. Bruess should not be found guilty of contempt for violating the order of the supreme court that the church of the Evangelical Creed congregation should be used for nothing but Evangelical Creed worship.

POLICE DISCOVER COUNTERFEIT GANG

MILWAUKEE, July 10.—In spite of remarks dropped by John Hajdu-kovich, whose arrest early Friday morning by Patrolman Michael Regan followed the raid of Detectives
Rooney and Kruse upon his home, 525 Reed street, when a counterfeiters' outfit and a number of bogus coins were discovered, the police and Secret Service Agent McManus do not think they can implicate any more men.

Hajdukovich intimated that he
was a pupil of a well known coun-
terfeiter and that he, his chief and
another member of a gang had recently come to Milwaukee from Minnesota, but that he and the chief had
quarreled, the chief returning north.
At first the police were inclined to believe his story, but now, while they have not entirely abandoned its possibility, they are giving it little credence.

"I think we have the case pretty well cleaned up," said Inspector Otto

Riemer. Secret Service Agent T. R.
McManus reiterates this opinion.
At daylight Friday morning the
police made a further investigation
of the house that revealed another
counterfeiting plant even more complete than the one first discovered.
It was hidden underneath the floor
of the second story. At 5 o'clock Hajdukovich, who had been sought all night, appeared at his home and was arrested.

WOMAN TORTURED; ROBBED OF SAVINGS

MILWAUKEE, July 10.—Under the pressure of a sharp knife at her breast, Mrs. Victoria Lackowski yesterday submitted to the demands of two robbers and revealed to them
the hiding place of the family savings—$240. After cruelly torturing the helpless woman, the men gagged and bound her and escaped. The assault occurred at a late hour in the morning when many pedestrians
were passing the house at 1021
Fourteenth avenue.

REJECTED YOUTH REPLEVINS GIFTS

NEW LONDON, Wis., July 10.—
Because she put off the wedding day
from date to date and finally is said to have found a life partner who sulted her better, Kathryn Shannon was compelled to return a lot of jewelry and other articles given her by Charles F. Ruddy. On a writ of replevin the filted young man obtained a gold bracelet, a gold ring,
one pair sleeve buttons set with diamonds, and a traveling bag.

EATEN ALIVE BY ALLIGATORS.

JANESVILLE, Wis., July 10. — Albert Wilcox, who is reported as having been eaten alive by alligators while bathing at Camp Walton, Fla., was born and brought up at Avalon, a little station ten miles south of this city.

Wilcox and his mother, Mrs. Geo.
Royce of Chicago, were spending the winter in Florida, and it is thought Wilcox went swimming and was killed. His clothes and fragments of his bones have been discovered.

SOCIETY

In spite of the intense heat of the week there has been a good deal going on socially. The Fourth was well observed at the Country club. Luncheon was served at noon to a large crowd, a 6 o'clock dinner at which over a hundred were present and in the evening the porches were filled with spectators to view the fireworks, which were unusually fine. There were many little family picnics and rive rides. All through the week there have been coffees, teas, receptions, "showers," bridge parties, picnics by land, picnics by water and small family picnics, besides the numerous ones at the different parks. Many of these affairs have been complimentary to visiting guests. Several affairs are already scheduled for next week among the younger part of society.
MOTOR PARTIES
Mrs. Goddard took a party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bottsford, Miss Edna Tarbox, Miss Annie Hanscone and Mr. Dawson to Trout Falls above Sparta.
Mrs. Louise Withee took a party of six to West Salem Wednesday where they were reinforced by a number of the West Salem people and drove to Mindoro where they dined.
Messrs. Roland Goddard and Abner Withee motored to Black River Falls.
Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ives, Mr. David Wiles and daughter, Ada, left today for Guttenberg, Ia. They will be absent a week.
BRIDGE PARTY
Mrs. Oscar Hulberg entertained four tables at bridge this afternoon complimentary to Miss Helen Stevens of Minneapolis. The guests were Mesdames Heegard of Watertown, S. D., E. H. Progress is the Keynote of the Success of
THE WEBER
Not satisfied with the brilliant achievements and triumphs of the past, its manufacturers' aim is for a still higher development. No critic could possibly demand more from the Weber than do its makers.
The uplift movement behind the Weber Piano is the greatest force in the piano business of the world today. Those who own the Weber are finding that this piano is now viewed by the greatest musical authorities as exemplifying the artistic advancement of the age.
The leading artists of the world today prefer the Weber, but a larger triumph yet, is the growing approval, evinced by an awakened public sentiment in favor of this great piano.

"Time's Flight Turned Backward" SAGE AND SULPHUR Made Her look Twenty Years Younger

READ MRS. HERRICK'S SWORN STATEMENT
STATE OF NEW YORK } ss. Rochester, N. Y.
County of Monroe }

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a school girl I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair, that was so plentiful, rich and glossy, that it was the envy of many of my young schoolmates, and attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. After I was married and as I grew older, my hair commenced to come out just a little at first, but gradually as time passed it came out more and more, and began to turn gray. I was induced by many good reports heard of Sage and Sulphur, to try a bottle. My hair was quite gray and thin on top when I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and you may imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, becoming thicker, darker, smoother and glossier than it had been for a long time. I continued the use of Sage and Sulphur and my hair is now in a splendid condition, as heavy and as dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. From my experience I believe it is one's own fault if they lose their hair, or let it get gray or harsh. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and still use it, and my hair still keeps thick, dark, smooth and glossy.

INDUSTRIAL LA CROSSE

HYNNE BENRUD CO. PROSPEROUS CONCERN

Beginning about 22 years ago to learn the trade of the marble and granite cutter, Andrew Hynne of the firm of Hynne and Benrud has prospered until now he is the senior partner of a flourishing firm which has business connections over the entire western part of the United States. After working in the business for about seven years, Mr. Hynne opened an establishment of his own. For many years he was in partnership with Mr. Crosby, the firm of Hynne and Crosby being one of the best known in the Northwest. About four years, Mr. Hynne disposed of his share in the business to Mr. Crosby and bought out the business stock of the firms of John Stanek and Thomas Shimmings. Mr. Benrud, who at that time, was connected with the La Crosse Monumental Works, joined with Mr. Hynne in the project and the firm filed articles of incorporation at Madison, with a capital of $10,000. Year by year the business is gradually increasing, creating a demand for skilled laborers who are capable of doing excellent work in this line.

Mr. Benrud has an experience that covers a period of many years and is known as one of the finest marble workers in the country.

The firm makes a specialty of manufacturing monuments and tomb stones, and also handles interior stone finish work for buildings.

All the men employed at the factory are experienced and have learned the business by serving as apprentices. After serving about three years a man is qualified as a worker in marble and granite.

The factory at present time employs about 12 men besides a large force of agents through out all parts of the northwest. From time to time the force is increased as the conditions of the business warrant it. The firm has orders shipped to all parts of the United States as far west as the coast. A large amount of the business is local but the greater share of the manufactured monuments and tomb stones are shipped out of the city.

The firm in its early beginning occupied a small building on south Third street but the ever increasing business made it necessary to secure larger quarters. The firm now occupies two large buildings at the corner of Third and King streets.

The rough stone is shipped into the city from the various marble and granite quarries throughout the country, principally from Vermont. It arrives here in large rough blocks by the car load. The rough unshewn block is taken to the cutter who shapes it into the general form of the pattern. The shaped stone or monument is then taken to another workman who polishes it. From him it goes to the engraver who applies the finishing touches and gives the stone the lettering and the various objects which are to be engraved on it. The monument is now finished and is placed in the display room or boxed and shipped to its destination.

Very heavy monuments are made in the immediate vicinity of the quarries to save shipping charges to and from the factory here. All the smaller stones are manufactured into finished objects in this city and then shipped.

Few of the people of the city realize that this thriving concern is doing a large and extensive business through out the country. The business men of the city are cordially invited to visit the factory to get a true idea of the amount of business and the character of the work that is turned out here in the city.

With the business increasing every year it will not be long before the firm will again be forced to look for more workmen and for larger quarters. Within a few years this should be one of the chief manufacturing concerns of our ever growing city.

The La Crosse Monumental Works has enjoyed an extra large business the past week. Several large orders have been received and enough work is now booked to keep the help busy for some time to come.

The Pamperin and Wiggenhorn company reports that the cigar business is more than holding its own. The entire crew has been at work the last week preparing cigars for the rushing trade.

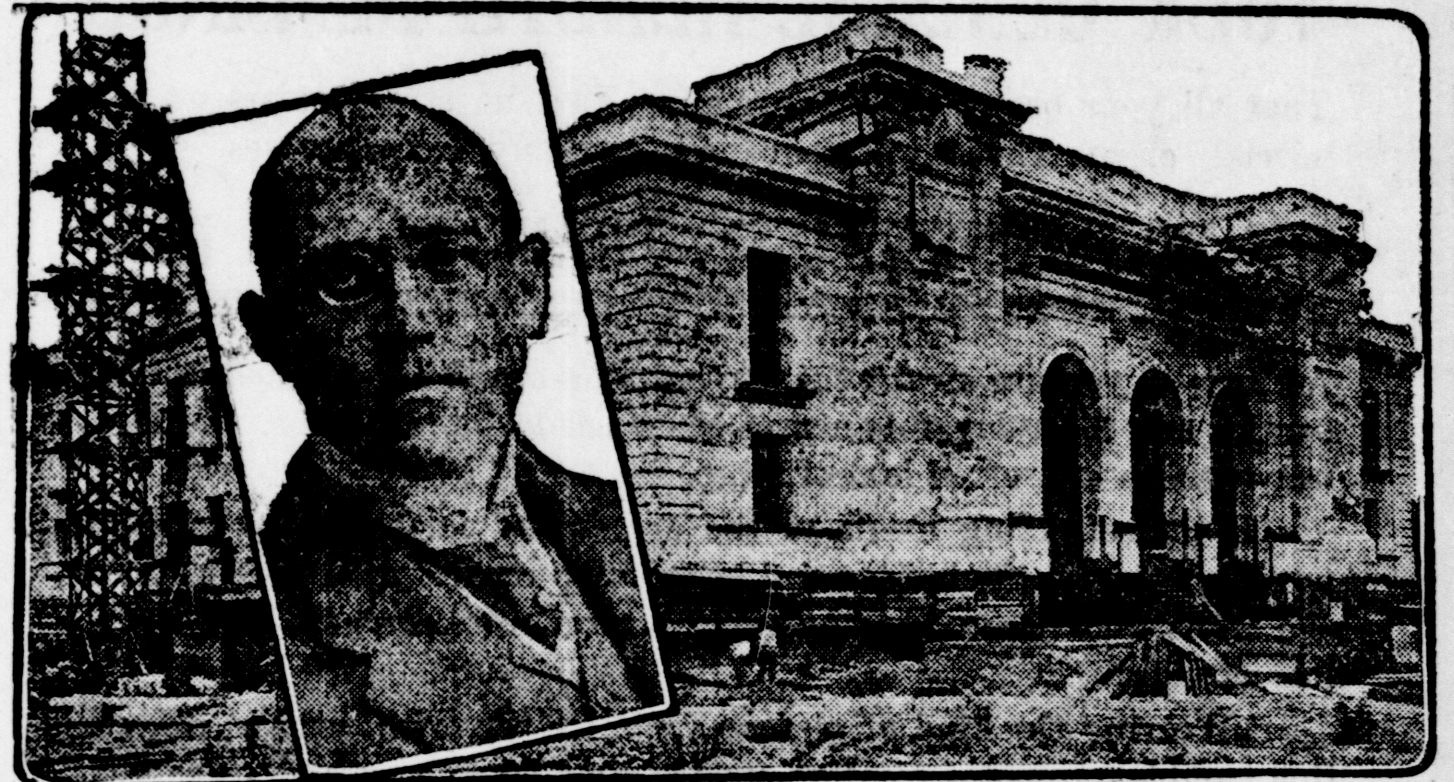

With the potato digging season but a few weeks off, the Egan Manufacturing company, manufacturers of the celebrated Egan Potato Digger is rushed with orders to the capacity at its North side plant, and the men are putting out machines over time.

The La Crosse Plow company is now busy making plows for next year. Although this year's plowing, with the exception of the fall work, has all been done, the company has more orders on hand for the famous La Crosse Plow than there are plows, hence the activity in the plow shops. The men are working on full time, and salesmen are bringing in large orders daily.

Smith wagons are popular in every state in the United States, but now during the hot weather the men are busy in their shirt sleeves making sleighs in anticipation of the several feet of snow which will probably cover Wisconsin and the Northwest next winter. Orders for wagons are coming in from the far western states.

Egid Hackner, proprietor of the Hackner Altar works on Ferry and Thirtieth streets is still making altars and church fixtures and saying nothing. Perhaps he is figuring on

THE HON. JOHN BARRETT AND NEW HOME OF THE INTERNATIONAL BUREAU OF AMERICAN REPUBLICS

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 6.—The new home of the international bureau of American republics is rapidly nearing completion and it is confidently predicted that when the various officials return from their summer vacations part of it at least will be ready for occupancy.

The Hon. John Barrett, director of the bureau, sees in the building the fulfillment of many years of work in interesting the American republics in such a central home. The work of this bureau is gigantic and they have always been handicapped by lack of room and conveniences. Now they are to have an unusually attractive building entirely to themselves and the way will be open to accomplish even greater results than in the past.

removing from the city. Some time ago he dickered with the Board of Trade with regard to a factory site and a spur track to his own site on Eighteenth street but nothing has come of it. Plans for a building have been prepared and are now being held for developments by Mr. Hackner.

This is the busy season for the La Crosse Awning and Tents Works. Every time the sun comes out strong there are about dozen rush telephone orders received by the clerk, and the men are kept busy placing awnings during the day and making them by night. With the advent of the camping season the company is also doing a great business in tents, both in sales and rentals.

J. W. Skinner, the Eureka Chemical company man, is still getting business on the famous Eureka eraser of which he is the inventor. The chemicals are sold in every state in the union and the demand exceeds the supply.

Lodge emblems, badges and regalia are always worn, but the great number of picnic badges, ribbons and cap ribbons worn by lodges for summer outings has made the E. G. Staats Regalia company of this city "bump some." The Staats concern is the only one of its kind in this part of the country and owing to the large number of orders employees are now forced to work over time several nights in every week.

SHOOT'S WOMAN WHO SPURNS HIM

EATON, Ohio, July 10.—Because his attentions were spurned, Harry Rife, telephone lineman, shot and instantly killed Ida Griswold, librarian at the public library.

STOLE GOODS TO GIVE THEM AWAY

LINCOLN, Neb., July 10.—Mrs. Minnie Green, aged 28, pleaded guilty in district court to wholesale pilfering from her employers and was sentenced to one year in the state penitentiary. The woman confessed that her thieving had continued for upwards of two years, during which time she had stolen numerous articles of woman's wear valued at $3,000 from Miller and Paine's department store, where she was employed as chief clerk of the alteration department. The homes of several relatives and friends of Mrs. Green were raided last night by detectives and most of the stolen property was recovered. The possessors in all cases declared that Mrs. Green had made them presents of the goods. The woman's husband, John Green, who is head engineer at the University of Nebraska, refused to secure bond for the woman and Mrs. Green spent the night in jail.

SUICIDE HIS MOST SENSIBLE ACTION

St. Louis, Mo., July 10.—"I am sorry to say it but this is the most sensible thing this poor fellow ever did," said John Mueller, of Union, Mo., when he looked at the body of his son-in-law, Wm. Bergmann, laid on a marble slab at the morgue here, a suicide.

Mueller said Bergmann was the blacksheep of a prominent German family and had been sent to America to reform. He seemed to have straightened up and married Mueller's daughter. He developed a violent temper and abused his wife and children at times though he always repented and asked for forgiveness. Mueller gave him money and sent him away to start life over, promising to send his family to him as soon as he was himself again.

Bergmann came to St. Louis and went to a hotel where he shot himself.

A man could earn several dollars with the energy he generates in trying to borrow one.

HENEY TO BENEFIT FROM CALHOUN TRIAL

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—The trial of Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railroads of San Francisco, on a charge of having bribed ex-supervisor John Purr for the overhead trolley franchise will be in full swing during the municipal elections next fall. This is the result of a decision of Judge Lawlor that Calhoun must stand trial July 19. The jury disagreed as to Calhoun's guilt after a trial that lasted five months.

Henev will run for district attorney of San Francisco as an independent candidate. The political situation in San Francisco will be at a white heat during the progress of the trial which is expected to last several months.

Henev won a complete victory in the decision of Judge Lawlor. The court decided that Henev is competent to handle the prosecution and directed that the retrial of the traction magnate proceed without delay.

A SURE STANDBY FOR STOMACH AND BOWEL TROUBLES

No matter how long you have been a sufferer from ailments of the Stomach and Bowels you will be greatly benefited by taking a short course of the Bitters. In hundreds of cases, probably worse than yours, this has been conclusively proven. But be sure to start today, as delay only makes a cure so much harder and you suffer longer than necessary. For over 56 years has proven to be a sure standby in cases of Sleeplessness, Biliousness, Constipation, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Heartburn, Bloating, Headache, Cramps, Diarrhoea, General Weakness and Malaria, Fever and Ague. A trial today will convince you of its great merit.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS

Mr. Jacob Hats, of Bangor, Wis., writes, "I find nothing that does me so much good as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It always gives satisfaction in stomach troubles."

Mr. T. H. Halloran, of Newport, Ky., writes, "I have taken Hostetter's Bitters and will always recommend it in cases of stomach trouble."

YOUR GENERAL HEALTH DEMANDS

That all your organs work normally. That no strain exists on any special organ. That no pressure exists on any of the nerves.

THE EYES ARE SMALLEST ORGANS IN THE BODY

As long as you are awake the tiny muscles are being strained in your service and the sympathetic nerves cause headache, dizziness, vertigo, nervousness and often loss of sleep.

If the refracting media of the eye is not perfect these muscles have to work all the harder and eventually result in breaking down the walls and tissue, thus bringing on torturous diseases and often loss of sight.

Wearing the kind of glasses I can fit you with, wards off all this trouble, promotes comfort, makes your work easy and gives you permanent relief of headache, insuring good sight for old age. Why do you wait longer?

Would You Go Blind for the Cost of My Perfect Fitting Glasses?

You that are wearing cheap glasses picked up at the stores do not know what harm you are doing. Let me prove this to you right now. Come to my office and after examining your eyes I'll furnish the glasses.

To those of you who have to wear two pair of glasses or are wearing the old style double lenses (Befocals) let me say I can now make you one pair that will help you to see far and near with the same pair and you will not be bothered with those lines in the lenses which are so noticeable and indicate old age. I can make better glasses than you can obtain anywhere else because I know how and devote all my time and study to learn the eye needs.

GOES FOR EVIDENCE IN PANAMA CASE

NEW YORK, July 6.—Attorney General Wickersham's assistant, Stuart McNamara, who has been pushing the Panama libel proceedings against the New York World and the Indianapolis News, has resigned for the time being at least and within a few days starts for Paris to obtain evidence in the case. McNamara is one of the young hustling attorneys whom the attorney general has gathered around him. He possesses a clear analytical mind, backed by experience and training which has brought him to the forefront in the attorney general's department.

CHANGES IN LAWS HAMPER PROBATING

New Laws in Effect Make Many Changes in the System at the Court House

With the rush of matters coming before probate court at this time, comes also the trying out of new laws. One of these requires a change of notice to creditors. Preferred claims may hereafter be paid in sixty days, instead of in six months as was formerly the case. Costs of the last illness and death and funeral expenses are included in preferred claims.

Instead of the county attorney, the public administrator must now appear at all inheritance tax hearings. The attorney general must also be notified of these hearings.

Changes have also been made in some of the criminal statutes. The crime of embezzlement and obtaining money under false pretenses is now punishable with a light sentence in the discretion of the court, when the circumstances do not warrant incarceration in the penitentiary or county jail.

To the Man With Something Worth Selling

You can never dismiss from your mind the two questions of selling and expense.

Your salesmen may be dead expense—mere order takers—or they may be positive factors in the production of income.

Your advertising may be the expression of your vanity in seeing your name in print, the luxury of acting as a patron for various needy and unnecessary publications, or it may be clear-cut, creative salesmanship.

If you want advertising service that fits your personality, that is adapted to your goods, and that is in harmony with the spirit of the people most quickly reached by each advertising medium—

you want us and we want you.

We expect our work to be tested and our value to be measured by the standards governing your selling force.

By confident co-operation with your salesmen we enhance their value to you and to themselves.

IN SOCIETY

JANET gave a little shiver of delight as the long train pulled into the station, and she spied a man in the Burnham livery alertly watching the coaches as they drew past.

The man was waiting for her; Janet Whittaker of the lace counter of the Bon Marche; waiting to lead her to the fairyland of society with a real capital.

The discreet footman did not smile at Janet's assumption of the grand manner. Mrs. Burnham had many guests who vainly sought to imitate her airs, and the novelty of these appearances had long since worn off.

With stately mien he led the way to the carriage and thanked her civilly for the 10-cent tip she handed him, knowing that Mrs. Burnham would find some way of explaining to Janet that at country house parties guests did not tip the servants as they would bell boys at a hotel.

Blissfully unconscious that at the very moment of her arrival she had betrayed herself, Janet leaned back against the padded seat and gave herself up to the enjoyment of the novel sensation of riding in a carriage; a luxury that in her own life had hitherto been associated with funerals.

But the landau was vastly different from the undertakers' hacks and the very luxury of appointments seemed to sound the keynote of the life that was opening before her, as the carriage rolled along the shady road toward the Burnham country place on the outskirts of a fashionable resort.

Janet did not know that she owed her invitation to the welfare secretary of the Bon Marche. That astute young woman knew her charges too well to appear in the matter.

Charitable Mrs. Burnham was interested in bettering the condition of the girls in the stores, and she co-operated with Miss Joyce in a quiet way that was vastly more effective than ostentatious charity.

Miss Joyce had explained that Janet was dissatisfied with her lot, and presently the kindly-faced Mrs. Burnham had cultivated the acquaintance of the girl at the lace counter, and Janet had told herself complacently that the invitation to spend her vacation with Mrs. Burnham was a recognition of the station in life than shopkeeping.

Janet dreamed rosy dreams as she sewed upon the dainty frocks that were to make her vacation wardrobe, and the dreams always ended with the wedding march as she led to the altar her wealthy "catch."

Now she was really arrived. Presently the carriage would turn into the private road and Janet's campaign would be begun. It would be her own fault, she told herself, if she did not return an engaged girl, perhaps, even,

she might not return at all to the drudgery of the store.

She thought half in pity, half in regret, of Jim Sprague, but she put the thought from her mind if not from her heart.

Time had been when Jimmy had represented the pinnacle of elegance, and the night that he had selected her to lead with him the grand march at the Bon Marche Association ball had been her first social triumph. But that was of the past. A new day was breaking for her, and in that day Sprague enjoyed no part.

Their arrival at the house roused Janet from her dreams to reality. It seemed impossible that she had at last realized her ambition, and it was several days before she could wake in the morning without wondering if this was not another dream.

And yet there was a canker within the rose. She flirted with the men outrageously and they hovered about her chair on porch or in parlor, but she made no progress in attracting the warmer admiration of any one of them, and ten days of her two weeks were gone with no result.

More than this, Janet was growing tired of the life she led. She was used to vigorous amusements and boisterous fun. She copied the other women and her mimicry of their air of bored tolerance was helped not a little by the fact that she found it all intensely dull.

It was the custom to assemble on the piazza after dinner when there was nothing else to do, and Janet, lingering over her dressing table, where she had been putting some after-dinner touches to her appearance, turned out know that Jim isn't very strong on water, even when he doesn't have to drink it."

"Not even when he's half seas over," suggested Tom Heffron, with a answered Marie Temple, and Janet's heart warmed to her until the next words.

"Mrs. Burnham does dig up some freaks," continued the girl, "but Miss Whittaker is the funniest we ever have been favored with. Her attempts to act as though to the manner born are a regular scream. We girls came to breakfast the other morning with two sets of combs in our hair, and right after breakfast she slipped upstairs and followed suit."

There was a laugh at the statement and the talk passed on to other topics, but the hurt had been done. Janet, throwing herself upon the bed regardless of her best dress, sobbed out her disappointment.

Mrs. Burnham, coming upstairs for a wrap, heard the choking sobs and entered her guest's chamber.

"Are you ill, my dear?" she asked, solicitously.

Janet shook her head. "I'm just homesick," she explained. "I thought when you asked me to visit you that I should be the happiest girl in all the world, but I don't belong here and I want to go back home—to Jim. He doesn't make fun of me."

"Have any of my guests ridiculed you?" asked Mrs. Burnham gravely. She entertained many young people, but it was understood that her proteges were not to be made uncomfortable.

"They don't make fun of me," explained Janet between sobs, "but I chuckle over his inane joke. The little protege seems to have picked Guest as the most likely victim. She has only three more days. She's got to do some hustling."

"I'm sorry that she has to go," answered Marie Temple, and Janet's know that I am not like them, and when I try to be like them I'm worse than ever. I want to be back to Jim. He likes to go to the park and listen to the band concerts and he likes to do all the things I do."

"I am sorry that your vacation has not given you pleasure," said the older woman, gently.

"It has," assured Janet. "It's done more than that. It has shown me that society people don't always have the best times. I always thought that they did, and I envied them, but now I know better, and—the very next time that Jim asks me I'm going to say yes. I've got three more days of vacation and I want to go home. I bet by the end of that time I'll be wearing a ring or I've lost my grip. I can manage Jim."

In the darkness Mrs. Burnham smiled to herself. Janet's vacation had been not without result and it had brought that most precious of gifts—contentment.

In Emergency.

"This is our celebrated raincoat," said the polite clerk. "You will find that it can't be soaked."

"Well, it is no use to me, then," replied the sporty chap. "I want one I can 'soak' when I go broke."

FOREIGN MARKETS
New York Stocks.
NEW YORK, July 10.—A moderately strong tone was displayed at the opening of the market and in the early trading with a majority of stocks showing fractional gains at the end of the first fifteen minutes. The freely circulated points about the coming increase in the Illinois Central dividend made that stock one of the strongest on the floor, the demand carrying it up nearly a point. Smelting rose 3-4, and Steel common and a number of other industrial made gains. All the important railroad stocks showed an improved tone, with U. P. S. P. and N. Y. C. ranging about 1-2 below yesterday's close.

11 a. m.—There was a generally better tone all through the first hour with a number of stocks making a fair amount of gain. Illinois Central advanced to about 153. Reading made a slight advance after the opening. Changes in the railroad stocks were generally in small fractions and without importance. In government bonds, the fours registered declined 1-2 point; others firm.

The market closed dull.

Bank Statement.
NEW YORK, July 10.—The statement of the associated banks issued today for the past week shows the following changes:

MINNESOTA AND THE NORTHWEST

SWALLOWS TRINKETS TO COMMIT SUICIDE

MANKATO, Minn., July 10.—Frank Smith, accused of the murder of H. J. Ledbetter, has been trying to commit suicide while confined in the county jail awaiting his trial.

The past few days he has taken to the diet of an ostrich, and according to his own statements has swallowed jewelry, pins and other things that no doubt account for his sickness at the present time.

Smith states that in his endeavor to kill himself he first swallowed a pair of cuff buttons. These seemed only to aid his digestion. He next got his crafty head to working out a shorter road to the beyond. This time he swallowed a safety pin and sat down on his bunk confident the inevitable hour would soon arrive, but he was again doomed to disappointment, for the pin only gave him a tickling sensation around the region of the appendix.

Happening to see an old rusty buckle on his overalls and a piece of wire lying on the floor, he swallowed the buckle, and rolled up the wire and swallowed it, too.

Smith Has Jaundice
It is hardly to be wondered that Smith, although possessing a wonderfully strong digestive apparatus, complained of severe pains in his stomach. Dr. Schmitt was called yesterday and pronounced his case that of jaundice.

If people with symptoms of kidney or bladder trouble could realize their danger they would without loss of time commence taking Foley's Kidney Remedy. This great remedy stops the pain and the irregularities, strengthens and builds up these organs and there is no danger of Bright's disease or other serious disorder. Do not disregard the early symptoms. O. T. Erhart.

SPIRITS TELL CHIEF ALL ABOUT MURDER

ABERDEEN, S. D., July 10.—If an actor named Willard Collins is to be believed, the spirit of Christ is engaged in attempting to aid the authorities to run down the murderer. Collins played in Aberdeen with the Spedden-Paige company during Homecoming week. He is well known here, and is an ardent spiritualist. Yesterday C. E. Zirbes, chief of police, received a communication from Collins, dated at Huron, in which he says:

"At a spiritual seance here tonight the enclosed message was given to us. I send it to you just as it was given us and you can use your own judgment. If anything comes of it I would be pleased to hear from you."

The message referred to reads thus:

"I J. W. Christie, was murdered by F. J. Oswal, Man in jail at Aberdeen knows all about it. They got $1,000 G. L. Lincoln, Aberdeen, will give description of Oswal."

No such man as G. L. Lincoln is known here, and no such person as F. J. Oswal has been known to be in this section of South Dakota.

MANAGER CAUGHT IN MINNEAPOLIS

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 10.—Sherman R. Norris, head of the Minnesota Grain Indemnity company, was arrested yesterday afternoon in Minneapolis after a two-day chase by detectives of the Minneapolis police department.

After learning the whereabouts of Norris, Captain Smith consulted with County Attorney A. J. Smith, and, acting upon his advice, ordered his men to arrest Norris, although no warrant charging a specific offense has been issued.

The refusal of Judge Charles A. Willard in federal court to appoint a receiver to take charge of the remaining assets of the Minnesota Grain Indemnity company, upon the petition of creditors, representing that Sherman R. Norris, trading as the Minnesota Grain Indemnity company, absconded with $1,100, is a new phase of the case.

Judge Willard gave as his reason for refusing to appoint a receiver that it was not shown there are enough assets left to warrant the expense.

DESPERADO FALLS IN DEPUTY'S TRAP

AMBROSE, N. D., July 10.—Charles Winfield, alias Kid Traller, an alleged notorious horse thief and outlaw, who is believed to have operated in northwestern North Dakota and eastern Montana and Canada for years, and is wanted on the charge of stealing horses in all of these places, was captured by Deputy Sheriff Braatelen and Archie Hanson, both of Ambrose, this week.

Braatelen learned that Traller had stopped at the Knapp farm, about twenty miles southwest of Ambrose, where he left four horses, expecting to return on the evening of the fifth to get them.

Traller, accompanied by Archie Hanson, both on saddle horses, lost no time in going to the Knapp place. Arriving there they hid their horses and secreted themselves in the pasture where the horses were kept and waited for Traller's return.

SAFE BLOWERS TRY TO ROB POSTOFFICE

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 10.—Burglars attempted to blow the safe in the postoffice at St. Louis park early today, according to the sheriff. Reports say that evidences of the work of safe blowers were discovered when Postmaster Charles Hamilton arrived at the postoffice.

Entrance was gained to the interior and money and articles of jewelry were stolen from the store at the rear of the postoffice. Investigation revealed, according to the report, that small drill holes had been made in the safe door, while there were vestiges of nitroglycerin and soap found about the crevices of the door. The attempt was probably frustrated by pedestrians who frightened away the marauders.

BRILLIANT WRITER SLAVE OF COCAINE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 10.—Karl Von Herman, former manager of Julia Marlowe and until a year ago one of the most brilliant newspaper men in America, now down and out, is to be put back on his feet again if the efforts of Milwaukee and Chicago newspaper men and Harvard alumni can do it.

Von Herman is known in magazine circles as La Salle, and probably his most notable work was a remarkable article which appeared a year ago giving a detailed description of the sensations of a cocaine user.

The La Salle article has already become a classic in the medical world for with the brilliancy of a Dequincy he has described the life and sensations of the user of the modern drug.

He was arrested in Milwaukee early this week charged with stealing two suits of clothes. He was not recognized until he had been in jail two days. Then a former Chicago newspaper man, who had known Von Herman saw him being photographed for the rogues gallery. Von Herman had concealed his identity behind his pen name. Once recognized, however, he begged for help. Harvard men were interested by the newspaper men and several doctors among them promised to do what they could to relieve him. The court has already arranged to save him from prison and instead of being sent up as a thief he will go to the county hospital as a patient until the newspaper men and Harvard graduates can arrange to give him sanitarium treatment. The mind of Von Herman is too brilliant, they say, to be allowed to sink to death, and they will try to save him for himself and the world.

Everyone would be benefitted by taking Foley's Orino Laxative for stomach and liver trouble and habitual constipation. It sweetens the stomach and breath, gently stimulates the liver and regulates the bowels and is much superior to pills and ordinary laxatives. Why not try Foley's Orino Laxative today? O. T. Erhart.

SUPREME QUESTION OF PRESENT DAY

"The great power of man is that by which he transforms the earth's raw material into that which shall prosper him in his pursuit of happiness.

"In this work of labor, the genius, the mechanic, and the brawny muscle all have their part, while the poet and musician and painter and prophet lead us to higher ideals and give us hope and cheer by the way, so that we are glad to account them among the toilers for the world's good.

"There is need of the captain, the lieutenant, the sergeant in this grand army of industry but none the less of the private. The battle of humanity is not won by maps and charts alone nor yet by the sword in the hands of the chiefest ones but in conjunction with the simultaneous charge of the rank and file."

Therefore the labor problem in all of its phases from the least to the greatest constitutes the "Supreme Question of the Day" and Professor T. E. Latimer of the University of Illinois has a message for every worker whether he toils with his hands or his head or with both, providing he thinks.

Persons in every state of life will find something of interest in Mr. Latimer's first address, Monday evening, July 12th at Cameron Park, Fourth and King streets.

REPUBLICANS FAIL TO OBSERVE PLEDGES

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Discussing the action of the ten insurgent republican senators who voted against the Aldrich bill, Senator Beveridge said:

"Our votes were cast against the bill in harmony with the pledge given by the republican party and the nation's president. We do not believe this bill fulfills these pledges. In order to preserve a policy we must keep it just; to preserve a party we must keep its faith. The only peril to the protective system is that deadly thing, excess. Our votes tell the conferees what we think they should do in adjusting the bill."

WOODMEN CAMPS ARE CONSOLIDATED

The two local camps of the Modern Woodmen of America lodge, the W. A. Northcott Camp, No. 9695, and Gateway City Camp No. 360, were formally consolidated in a meeting held at Linker hall last evening. The new camp will be known as La Crosse Camp No. 360.

At 8 o'clock the members of the two societies met in a short business meeting. The old officers of Camp 360 were elected as officers of the new camp: John E. Hauser, consul; Chris. Johnson, advisor; John D. Wilson, clerk; Henry Luth, treasurer.

At the close of the session talks were given by P. W. Mahoney, B. F. Keeler and John E. McConnell. The meeting was then adjourned, after which refreshments were served.

ST. PAUL EAGLES CAN'T FIND DIETHORN

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 10.—It was stated at police headquarters today that John F. Diethorn, wanted for grand larceny of the funds of the St. Paul Aerie of Eagles, had left town and could not be located.

The missing and deposed secretary has been employed in the city engineer's department for over a year, and has not severed his connection with that office.

NEW LINE OF RIVER PACKETS

A movement is on foot at the present time to start a steamboat line from New Orleans to St. Paul. Captain Thos. H. Sims of Burlington, Iowa, is the father of the plan and is now in Chicago making preparations for financing the line. Several other men of Burlington are also interested financially.
